About the Collection

Simplicity, Utility, and Beauty

“Architecture is really about well-being. I think that people want to feel good in a space.” Zaha Hadid

Architecturally, Mid-Century modern brought about a revolution in commercial spaces, with an emphasis on creating structures with ample windows and open floor plans, with the intention of opening up interior spaces and bringing the outdoors in. Not only did this shift in design create a beautiful simplicity, but also utility, with function being regarded as important as form in Mid-Century designs.

As businesses search for more ways to create healthier and happier teams, workplace design and creating the right environment is a major focus for any responsible business. Creating more inviting and homely workspaces that blur the lines between work and home is an increasing trend, making the office a place that people want to be. This can be in the form of non-traditional meeting spaces, residential style lighting, a warm colour palette with natural textures and curated furniture items.

The OLG Designer Collection comprises a carefully selected range of occasional chairs and tables, inspired by Mid-Century’s adoption of clean simplicity and integration with nature. All crafted from richly grained ash wood, these items are offered in stains that allow the wood’s natural characteristics to shine through. Options include a rich mahogany stain that reflects a warm Mid-Century palette, or a sleek natural stain that maximises the lightness in a room in keeping with Scandinavian design.

OLG is very conscious of the environmental and social impact of the production of timber products around the globe. When assessing and selecting items for the Designer Collection, OLG has been careful to ensure the items are sourced from factories with high standards of corporate responsibility.

Chairs

“The details are not the details.
They make the design.”

– Charles Eames

The chairs that feature in the OLG Designer Collection bring a minimalist refinement to office spaces. Without over-designing any parts, each element serves its function. Lightweight and comfortable, their sculpted form accentuates the inherent beauty of natural timber.

With angled supports and natural forms, the result is a classic profile that enables these occasional chairs to work just as well as guest seating in executive offices as they do to waiting areas or meeting rooms.
